TTLE-WORN" BANNERS.

BY PARK BENJAMIN.

saw the soldiers come to-day
From battle-fields afar;
conqueror rode before the way
On his triumphal car;
ir captains, like themselves, on foot,
And banners sadly torn,
grandly eloquent, though mute,
In pride and glory borne.

Those banners, soiled with dust and smoke,
And rent by shot and shell,
That through the serried phalanx broke,
Whatterrors they could tell!
What tales of sudden pain and death
In every cannon's boom,
When even the bravest held his breath
And waited for his doom.

hands of steel these flags were waved
Above the carnage dire,
Almost destroyed, yet always saved,
Mid battle-clouds and fire;
Though down at times, still up they rose
And kissed the breeze again,
Bread tokens to the rebel foes
Of true and loyal men.

And here the true and loyal still
Those famous banner bear;
The bugles wind, the fifes blow shrill,
And clash the cymbols where,
With decimated ranks, they come,
And through the crowded street
March to the beating of the drum
With firm though weary feet.

God bless the soldiers! cry the folks,
Whose cheer of welcome swell;
God bless the banners black with smoke,
And torn by shot and shell!
They should be hung on sacred shrines,
Baptized with grateful tears,
And live embalmed in poet's lines
Through all succeeding years.

No grander trophies could be brought
By patriot sire to son,
Of glorious battles nobly fought,
Brave deeds sublimely done.
And so, to-day, I chanced with pride
And solemn joy to see
Those remnants from the bloody tide
Of Victory.

Very Rich--A Pickpocket's Adventure in our "Best Society."

New Brighton, Feb. 23, 1864.

MR. EDITOR: I send you the enclosed slip, which I cut from the Union Banner, published at Bellview, Iowa, the same in the Argus, for I know it will interest many of your readers—especially as this Pickpocket "Professor" honored New Brighton and vicinity with several of his visits last summer, pretending to feel great interest in the mineral and coal deposits of this interesting region." When arriving here one rainy morning, for economy—as he asserted—he carried off with him a very fine specimen of an overcoat from a mercantile gentleman, and an umbrella and a shirt from the landlord—all of which he borrowed—promising to return them the next day. That day has not yet arrived. At Liverpool, Ohio, he stopped a few days with a Methodist clergyman—making himself very much at home, by professing great interest in religion and by praying long and loud for the conversion of sinners. Previous to his departure from the home of this Rev gentleman, he relieved him of about eighty dollars, and continues his journey through Ohio and the western States. Arriving in Iowa, he "cuts a wide swarth," as you will see by the Banner's account.]

Within the past ten years or more, the "quality" of Dubuke has been battened upon and "sold" divers and sundry times. First came "King, of the Thousand Isles" with his lovely daughter. Parties were given in their honor. They were feasted — the daughter courted and proposed to.—They suddenly disappeared, after having borrowed money and silk dresses enough to clothe a princess. By and by it leaked out that King was one of a gang of horse thieves, and his lovely "daughter" was his mistress.

Next Tompson, "the New Orleans banker," flirted with our young ladies and obtained money from our young men, and then—turned up a barber in Baltimore.

And "DeGrandville, the French Count," who was the "nock of the walk" among our wealthy families for weeks. He also relieved our first young men of "a few," and went his way, leaving his admirers astonished to learn that he was a smart scoundrel of a son of an Ohio farmer.

Constab, the gallant English Major who had fought the rebels in India, introduced himsel one day, and lectured for the benefit of the poor one night. He soon began to be disappointed about "drafts from England," borrowed a $50 here, a $10 there, and more somewhere else, slipped off one bright morning, and his fascinated friends were sorry to learn that he was a mighty sharp trickster. His lecture on India was stolen from an English paper, and he,—why he belonged when he was born, to a pawnbroker in Liverpool.

Then there was Rickard also, who came the first-rate lawer and great-influence-with-the-authority-at Washington-dodge," flourished nearly two years, and then was exposed as an infernal scoundrel.

But these were all common ones horse-imposters, beside the great scientific light which has recently illuminated, and gone out of, "our best society." He came to Dubuque on a steamboat from below and introduced himself to Judge Wright the first day of the State Fair, as professor James Dale Owen, a son of the great Geologist, Robert Dale Owen, and a Professor in the Geological Department of the Smithsonian Institute.—He had been out west he said, to visit the several State Fairs, and make a note of what was new and curious among the articles exhibited, and to purchase the rare Geological and mineralogical specimens that he might see in his travels. Of course he was warmly received by the Judge who gave him a season ticket to the Fair, and at once introduced him to the prominent men on the grounds, and to not a few ladies. For three days he lived in clover. He was invited to dine, and to ride, and to sleep, and he never failed to accept the invitation, as if he were conferring an honor upon the host.

To a person of influence he expressed a desire to visit "Walled Lake," and forthwith passes were procured for him over the western railroad.—These he used with grand effect.—He would introduce his mission into conversation, relate how passes over the railroads had been furnished him at Washington before starting, and exhibit those giving him a free ride over the Dubuque and Sioux City road as if to prove his truthfulness and the high appreciation in which he

There happened to be a vacancy in the Committee in mineralogical and geological specimens, and he was immediately appointed to fill the place He had very little to say about the science of geology. He avoided his committee colleagues when on the fair ground; they were never able to secure his attention but once, and then when looking at specimens he sagely remarked that—"Mineralogy of Iowa had not been developed, but that its Pantology had." He made the acquaintance of a young lady from the country, who had paintings on exhibition. And didn't he talk painting to her though? He visited her at her stopping place, sat up late with her, took her to concerts, and in presence of others told her that he would buy her productions if he did not receive orders from Washington not to spend any more money; privately with her that he should spend the winter in Washington, but that he should go to Europe in the spring, and ended it all by offering himself to her. She should travel over the continent next summer, and have a year's schooling in her beautiful art in Italy, the land of the great masters. She went to a friend and asked his advice. She disliked the man, but travel would be such an advantage to her, she said. Her friend asked the advice of another who knew the Professor. He was astonished, thought it strange, but told the man that Owen was an eminent man, would be a match for any woman. It is thought that the lady accepted him. And it has turned out that two others in our city accepted him also, he holding up to both the same dazzling enjoyment of a tour through the old world.

The Professor was often seen with Governor Kirkwood. He roomed with the Governor, he told his victims. He made the Governor's acquaintance at the President's dinner table, and the President thought the Governor a very able man. As there was nothing in the Governor's conduct to contradict this, all believed it, and as a consequence, a reverend prelate invited the Governor, the Professor, and Dr. Horr to dine with him, and the Professor took it upon himself to invite others, who were personal and political enemies of Mr. K. It so happened that the "enemies" called at the house first, and when told the names of the parties who were expected they sloped, thinking the Professor's etiquette very strange, for a man of his eminence.

He also became intimate with Judge Mason, of Burlington, whom he cruelly sold. The Judge took him one day into Gilbert's Book-store, and Gilbert made mention of the Young Men's Library. "Ah? Young Men's Library. Ah, here it is—a very fine one too. By the way, Judge have you a copy of my father's Geological survey of Iowa, Wisconsin, and Minnesota ?"

"I have."

"Well suppose you present it to this Library, and when I reach my home I'll send you a splendidly bound one in its place."

The Judge assented, and after he had reached home sent the book, with his compliments. He will probably feel a little angry before long. His was one of the very few copies of the work in Iowa, and it can't be purchased at a trifling cost, as the volume is out of print.

The Professor pretended to have in possession several sets of the works of Darwin, Lyell, and other eminent Geologist, which had been placed in his hands by Mrs. Senator Harland to sell for the benefit of the United States Sanitary Commission—worth seven dollars a set, and those who would like to have them could give him the money and he would forward the volume from Washington. Eight or ten of the citizens handed him seven dollars each. They haven't received the books yet.

He stepped into Dr. Horr's office one chilly day. He had just received an invitation to ride out to the mines, but he had left his overcoat at the hotel; his friends were waiting in the carriage; would the doctor be so kind as to lend him an overcoat or shawl? Of course, and a great, well made, warm, expensive overcoat was given him. He put it on—rather large for him, he said, but just the thing. Off he went, and the doctor has never seen the coat since—nor the Professor either.

Professor asked General Wiltse one intimate with Robt. Dale Owen, and he was but too glad to see this, his son. He could discover no similarity between the celebrated father and the eminent son. The Professor was astonished—others not half so well acquainted with his father, could detect a likeness—and he laughed because the General couldn't see it, and because he was sure he would before long! Gen. W. now thinks he knows why the rascal laughed.

He told many of the exhibitors of machines, implements, &c, that he was a correspondent of the New York Tribune, and daily sent letters descriptive of the Fair to that paper. The story took, and several $5 and $10 greenbacks were slipped into his hands, for "special mention." He at first declined to receive the money, but always concluded, at last, that it would "help the cause," and he would hand it to Greely when he arrived in New York. The Tribune folks had also requested him to visit different portions of the State and describe the country, the crops and the way things looked politically. The story took well and he was the recipient of many an invitation from persons from all parts of Iowa, to visit their homes. Nearly every one offered to pay his expenses of the trip, and two gentlemen actually gave him money to purchase his own and their tickets, because, he told them, he could purchase his own and their tickets, at a liberal deduction from the regular fare.

But we havn't space to mention all his audacious games. He dined with the wealthy, and flirted with the wealthy's daughters, and borrowed money until he should return from the hotel, where his own was deposited in a safe.

But there was one man who saw through the Professor the very first interview, and that was Capt. Tom Levens, who, after the Professor had looked at his Cabinet, denounced him as "no geologist, a d—d fool, and bogus in everything."

And now it turns out that "Professor James Dale Owen" was nothing less than a skillful Pickpocket. Several who had money taken from their pockets, now remember that they missed it shortly after being introduced to him, and that he contrived to make their acquaintance in a jostling crowd. SMITHSONIAN INSTITUTE, Washington Sep. 28, 1863.

DEAR SIR: Your letter has just been received, for which please accept our thanks.

Mr. James Dale Owen is an impostor, and his career should be checked immediately. We have heard of his swindling operations in Newark, O., and elsewhere, and have published him Smithsonian Agricultural Department, or Sanitary Commission, are all false.

You ought to caution the public against him in your Western papers.

Yours, respectfully,
WM. J. RHEES,

A DEMOCRATIC PAPER ON M'CLELLAN.

We have been reading the prominent passages in the report of George B. M'Clellan. The are the passages, which are selected by such papers as the New York World, and others favorable to him, to give him the very best show before American citizens. They have convinced us, sincerely, that he is a man of unsurpassed military ability. His letter of February 3d, 1862, to Secretary Stanton, setting forth the plan of the Peninsular campaign, as he would have had it, is masterly in its conception, and shows the highest military talent in its details. That is as it seems to us.

We regret that it was not fully adopted by the Administration, for with its ultimate fruition the rebellion might have been a thing of the past, the nation might have been united and happy once more, and General M'Clellan might have been the enthusiastic choice for the next Presidency. But the plan may have been faulty; it certainly was, for good or for evil, not carried out. Its projector has, for good or for evil, parted company with the great struggle for the Union, and seems to have thrown himself, with his heavy dead weight, upon all efforts to go on with the war.

What matters it here, in this time of peril, whether M'Clellan's or somebody else's plans and theories, in '62, were better? It is precisely of as much consequence as the question of Grouchy's fidelity at Waterloo. It is a matter with which history has to deal—not we here in the trenches, resisting an assault upon the life of a nation.

Suppose M'Clellan to have been badly treated. Shall the earth and the sun stand still until he is attended to? Give him a court-martial, or a committee of inquiry, if he wants it; shoot him or Stanton, whichever is found to be in fault; do anything in reason that he wants done, but let us go on, meanwhile, with more pressing and important matters.

Joe Hooker had as good a right to growl and grumble and humph himself up. Did he do it? Go and ask him, down there in Tennessee, good-natur edly smoking his cigar under the shadow of Lookout Mountain. John Pope, as brave a fighting man as ever lived, never had the hundredth part the time, the favor, patient waiting which was given M'Clellan to do something with the Army of the Potomac. Did he fall back, glum and cross, and demand that nothing should be done until he was avenged?

He came from the command of a great army to a mere Indian border war as gaily as though it were a holiday excursion. Burnside did not cope with Longstreet at Fredericksburg, and was summarily and gave hard knocks at Knoxville. M'Dowell, the earliest victim of ill luck, has been vainly urging ever since, not the endorsement of his plans at Bull Run, but a command to lead once more at the rebel army. Rosecrans, the beloved of all, who was blown out after the battle of Chickamauga as you would blow out a penny candle, referred to the druggist instead of the Government, about the opium question. Even Scott, the greatest General living, who was set aside gently but firmly, takes his morning walks in the Fifth Avenue, and if he doesn't encourage, he doesn't discourage the attempts we are making to save the country.

Up to the advent of Meade, every General who has had command of the Army of the Potomac has been relieved from it under circumstances which they probably did not regard as flattering. But of them all, there has been only one who has undertaken to inflict his wrongs—if they were wrongs—upon the country. That one was George B. M'Clellan. He asks the country to take notice that not only his military plans, but his ideas as to the politics of the war, are different to those which have been pursued. He publishes old letters to the President. He charges Stanton, the existing Secretary of War, with having connived at his defeat and the destruc of Pennsylvania will draft is unconstitutional. And he permits himself to be named as the Presidential candidate by Fernando Wood the Vallandighams, and all other dead weights hanging on the war. It is one of the fatalities which seem to attend that class of politicians, that they are making a candidate of that kind. So long as they keep control of the Democratic party so long will it be defeated.—Green Bay (Wis.) Democrat.

TEN THOUSAND PERSONS BURNED ALIVE IN JAPAN.—In August last, in Japan, not a building with two thousand beings in it, but a whole city of a hundred and seventy thousand souls, was suddenly burned to ashes in a few hours; a city of paper and bamboo, covering many square miles, filled with its women and children, the sick and the infirm, the blind, the halt and the maimed. It burned like straw on many sides at once, reddening the ocean for leagues with its flames. It was fired, with no warning, by bomb-shells and red-hot shot rained incessantly during two days into its midst. In that vast conflagration it is morally certain that not two thousand only, but at least five times, perhaps ten or twenty times two thousand helpless creatures must have perished. No brilliant pen has painted for us the hideous incidents of their last agonies, and the horrors of an infernal fire, before which that of Chili burns but pale and feebly. That death was dealt out to these innocent beings in Japan by English sailors, purposely, unsparingly and boastfully, not in war, not in necessity, not in self-preservation, but in order to strike terror into a harmless people whom we are bent upon forcing into trade.—Letter in London Daily News.

☞ In Icetown, opposite St. Louis, which was built on the frozen river during the "cold spell," a bar-keeper built a fire in his tent and set before it on a three-legged stool, warming his shins, when the fire thawed a hole in the ice, and the man fell in, and has not yet reappeared. His assistant, a verdant Irish boy, was asked where the proprietor was, and replied:—"Faith he's gone into the cellar."

☞ A School-boy being asked by his teacher how he should flog him, replied:—"If you please sir, I should like to have it upon the Italian system of penmanship—the heavy strokes upward and the down ones light."

Pennsylvania.

The Legislature of this State, which met on the 5th of January, has been kept unorganized by Jeff. Davis till yesterday. The People are for the Union War; they gave an anti-Copperhead majority of 15,825 last October, after the most animated canvass and on fullest vote ever cast in that State at any election whatever. They then elected a Union War majority to either branch of the Legislature, and supposed the whole matter settled. But Mr. J. Davis held one of the Union Senators (Col. White) prisoner of war at Richmond, and his friends thought they had a right to make the most of manded half the offices of the Senate, and would consent to no organization without such concession. Every effort to effect an exchange of Col. White was of course defeated. But means were at last found to procure and forward his resignation; whereupon a speical election was held in his District (Indiana and Armstrong Counties), and another good and true Unionist, Dr. St. Clair chosen in his stead by about 2,000 majority. Dr. St. Clair having reached Harrisburg with his certificate of election in his pocket, was yesterday escorted to the Capitol by a procession of Four Thousand Unionists, took the oath of office after the reading of the official returns; when the bill enabling the soldiers of Pennsylvania who may be in service next Fall to vote where they are was at once called up and passed; Yeas, seventeen; Nays, sixteen—a square party vote. There was a little cheering when that vote was announced—only about equal to a good-natured earthquake. Then the old clerks were re-elected by seventeen votes to sixteen blanks; and the Legislature settled itself to the long deferred work of the session. In the House, a bill to charter a new air-line through railroad from New-York to Washington was read.

Pennsylvania tried as by fire stands fast by the Union cause.—New York Tribune, March 2d.

The Rebel Puzzle.

The case of the rebels stands thus, by the showing of their own papers:

1. If they increase their army they can not feed it.
2. Unless they increase their army they are whipped.
4. If the press speaks out their Government will be gone.
5. If they draft the whole population they must surrender.
6. If they draft the whole population they must starve.
7. Unless they recover East Tennessee they can get no saltpeter.
8. If they undertake to recover East Tennessee they will get more saltpeter than they want.
9. Unless they free the negroes they've nothing left to fight with.
10. If they free the negroes they've nothing left to fight for.
11. Ever since the rebellion begun negroes have been falling.
12. Nevertheless their greatest fear now is lest the negroes should rise.
13. Unless Jeff. Davis repudiates his present debts, he can't borrow from any body.
14. If he repudiates, nobody will lend to him.
15. If he impresses food he turns the land into a desert.
16. Unless he impresses food he turns his men into deserters.
17. They can't succeed in the war until they have got the means of building railroads.
18. They can't get the means of building railroads.
19. If they fight they lose the day.
20. Unless they fight they lose every day.

☞ Chattanooga has the appearance of a vast brickyard surrounded by low hills of a reddish color, intersected by disjointed pieces of streets, including the inevitable "Main street," studded with chubby churches, long sheds, spacious depots and warehouses and straggling buildings of all kinds. It is an uninviting and bare looking place, being unrelieved by a single tree. The whole is nearly inclosed by cetaceous ("very like a whale") looking mountains, with their bold bluffy heads towards the river, and their ridgy backs mingling away in the distance. In this vicinity was fought the most decisive battles of the war, and Lookout Mountain and Mission Ridge will be as prominent in the pages of history as in the landscape of this romantic region.

☞ A Mormon priest, named Nicholas, made a nerve and bone all-healing salve, and thought he would experiment a little with it. He first cut off his dog's tail and applied some of the salve to the stump. A new tail grew out immediately. He then applied some to the piece of tail which he cut off, and a new dog grew out. He did not know which dog was which.

☞ The Hallowell (Me.) Gazette says that William Willis, of that city, who lost his leg at the siege of Fort Pulask, having been furnished with an artificial Palmer leg, goes skating on the river as glibly as though he had never been engaged in subduing the rebellion.

A HEARSE AT A WEDDING.—A singular incident occurred at a wedding in Troy, N. Y., last week. The guests were assembled and the carriages were awaiting them at the door, when a sexton drove up with a hearse, which he backed down to the gate, alighted and opened, and stood waiting to receive the coffin. He had mistaken the place, and seeing the carriages, supposed it was a funeral instead of a feast. The circumstance cast a gloom over the happy bridal gathering.

HIS LITTLE FAILINGS.—"My James is a very good boy," said an old lady, "but he has little failings, for none of us are perfect. He threw the cat in the fire, flung his grandfather's wig into the cistern, put his daddy's powder horn into the stove, tied the coffee pot to Jowler's tail, let off squibs in the barn, and took my cap bobbin for fishing lines; but these are only childish follies—he's an excellent boy after all."

☞ John P. Putnam, a grandson of General Putnam, has presented for exhibition at the Albany Army Relief Bazaar the pistols in which was burnt the first powder of the Revolution. It will be remembered that Maj. Pitcairn rode toward the crowd drawn up in hostile array at Lexington, shouting "disperse, ye rebels," and fired his pistols into their midst. His horse was shot under him, but he managed to escape. The pistols were found in the saddle, became the property of Gen. Putnam, and were worn by him during the Revolution.

☞ There have been lately two in Charles
ed into two districts, viz: "in range" expression is used. You hear constantly such remarks, as "Where are you going?" "Well, I've got to go down in range," or "I'm going up out of range now." Burglaries occur every night in range, as the inhabitants do not stay there to protect their goods.

☞ A short-sighted professor, on going out of the gate-way of his college, ran against a cow. In the confusion of the moment he raised his hat, and exclaimed—"I beg your pardon, Madam." Soon after he stumbled against a lady in the street, and in sudden recollection of his former mishap, he cried out—"Is this you again, old brute."

☞ Somebody who knows, says when two or more women, approaching you on a narrow walk, fall behind each other to enable you to pass, you may be sure they are ladies of uncommon politeness and consideration. The usual course pursued by women is to charge along all abreast, sweeping everybody into the mud.

☞ Horses have to suffer starvation in the war as well as men. An officer arrived at Chattanooga inquired of a negro where he could find accommodations for his horse. "Don't know, sah, about the 'commodations. De fence rails is all gone, and dar arn't nothin' for 'em to eat any more, only a few barn doors, and we want dem for the Generals' horses."

☞ Samuel Cousens, of Newton, Mass., together with five of his sons, all of them in good circumstances, have enlisted for three years or the war. No Copperheads in that family.

☞ The editor of a Western paper says he can generally manage by hook or by crook, to get up a pretty good paper. Prentice says he does it generally by book.

☞ The lawyers of Adrian, Michigan, are on a strike. The people are debating whether to give them bigger wages or to live quietly and starve them out.

☞ Gen. Rosecrans is busy systematizing the military organization of Missouri, and is about to make a completed tour of the State for that purpose.

☞ A serious schism has sprung up in the Mormon ranks—an issue being raised by Joe Smith, Jr. and Israel Rogers, in favor of the one wife doctrine.

☞ An Irishman lately declined to fight a duel, on the plea that he disliked it to leave his "ould mother an orphan."

He is one of the finest teachers in the country and has given entire satisfaction to his former class. His system is different from that of other teachers, and is so simple that almost any person can learn to sing.

☞ THE Examination of the Classes in the Beaver Seminary and Institute, commences this (Wednesday) morning at 9 o'clock and continues till Thursday noon. The Closing Exercises take place Thursday evening, in the Presbyterian Church. These consist of Prize Reading, Prize Essays, a Cantata conducted by Prof. Cole, Quartettes, music on the Violin and Banjo. Admission 20 cents.

☞ A few days ago some rebel prisoners, being taken from Camp Chase to Fort Delaware, on passing [illegible] the answer was "No." "Who are you for?" "Jeff. Davis," was their reply. "Could you not go Lincoln?" They answered, "No,"—heaping curses on him at the same time. "Well, could you support Gen M'Clellan?" "Yes," they answered, "he is the best man you have here." So we see that the rebels understand M'Clellan's position.

CREDITS ON QUOTAS.—Circular No. 3, recently issued by Adjutant General E. D. Townsend, is as follows:—The following instructions concerning credits on the quotas of States and towns are furnished for the information and guidance of all concerned:

"Recruits will be credited to the localities from which they received the local bounties, provided the muster-in rolls show them enlisted and mustered in as of the said localities. The muster-in rolls must show the facts of the case, and will be evidence for awarding the particular credits.

"Veterans in service re-enlisting will be credited to the localities to which the re-enlistments and muster-in rolls show them as belonging.—Therefore, until veterans have been re-mustered, it cannot be determined to what particular locality they will be credited."

☞ Evening is the time for social delight. The fountains of pleasure like many in nature, which stop during the day, bubble in the bosoms of companions at nightfall. This reminds us that James H. Stokes, at New Brighton, next door to the Keystone Hotel, is selling Dry Goods, Boots, Shoes and Clothing at extremely low prices, which is a fountain of pleasure to all who give him a call. *

ED. ARGUS:—The Star of March 4th, reports a vote of the 50th Reg Pa. Vols., "by an old Democratic friend," as follows: "For McClellan, 777; "For Lincoln, 33. We don't like to tell anybody that they lie, but this does sound as if there was a lie somewhere. A Regiment that has been in service for nearly three years, numbering 810 men, is during pretty well.

The vote of the 50th Reg. Pa. Vols., on the 16th of October last, was as follows: For Curtin, 260; For Woodward, 2; showing the Regiment to number only 262 men. Was not the Star's "old Democratic friend," one of those, two, who voted for the soldier's disfranchiser last October? If so, his information is not at all reliable, for "copperheads" will not tell the truth.

ABOLITIONISM.

Nothing has been more remarkable in the progress of this war than the gradual, but complete, revolution of public sentiment on the question of Abolitionism. Five years ago the name was used as a term of reproach, except here and there one, who was universally called a radical or fanatic; men of all parties carefully and earnestly denied any sympathy with the anti-slavery cause. Seward, who today, is regarded as being too conservative, lagging in the rear of public opinion, holding the same issues, was defeated for the nomination for the Presidency four years since, because of his radicalism. His claims were sacrificed to public opinion. As the war has progressed the eyes of the people have gradually been opening—a corrected, liberal and enlightened public opinion has been formed that is worth more than all the war has cost us. Three-fourths of the intelligent citizens of the North and fully one-fourth of those of the South are Abolitionists in its fullest sense, as applied to the evils of slavery and the freedom of slaves. Let us unlearn the [illegible] we once loved we now hate, and what we once hated we now love. So complete has been this change of public sentiment that a man who is heard to deny his Abolitionism, is at once suspected of that opposite doctrine—secessionism. Even the great pro-slavery party of the North, the party that has for years upheld the system, and is responsible for its spread and many of its evils, even the great democratic party is becoming revolutionized, imbued with anti-slaveryism.—Many of the party bitterly denounce human bondage and long for the time to come when freedom shall be proclaimed throughout all the land. The party is advancing steadily, and soon we may expect to see it occupying a correct position, conforming and upholding what justice and humanity plainly require at the hands of all men of all parties. The finger of God is plainly visible in this advance. The progress has been gradual, each invasion being made when it was evident the times and circumstances required it. Very few deny the right of slaves to take up arms, and still fewer their right to freedom when escaping from a rebel master. The President, with commendable sagacity, has advanced with it—not in advance of public sentiment.

All that was claimed for the negro, by the Abolitionists, at the beginning of the war, is now freely granted.—God has opened the way for our deliverance [illegible] neither. The way is made so clear, God's workings so plain, that a man must be either wilfully blinded or a traitor that cannot see it. We rejoice that the people are so nearly of one mind in this matter. We believe firmly that we must purify our nation of the sin of slavery, or witness its overthrow. If Abolitionism is right, and we believe it is, we hope to see the country thoroughly abolitionized. There is something grand and noble in the thought that while suffering we are working out for the nation a triumph more glorious than war alone could ever ensure a future worthy the efforts, the sacrifices, the treasure and blood spent to re establish it. To remove a vital evil, to advance human happiness and relieve untold misery, is worth a great struggle. We are laying anew the foundations of our Government, and let no part be wrong or unstable. Building upon a foundation laid according to the comprehensive teachings of christenized humanity, we have the guaranty that the superstructure will be endurable and enduring Serious Charges Against McClellan.

A written statement, says a Washington special, has been furnished to the Secretary of war from a citizen of Maryland, formerly a member of the Legislature, and cousin of the rebel Gen. Lee by marriage, in whose house Lee stayed during the battle of Antietam, in which he states that on the night after the battle he sent a messenger to McClellan asking a personal interview, and in accordance with that request McClellan rode through the lines that night, and had a long interview with Lee inside the rebel lines. During that interview he states that Lee told McClellan his army was then crossing the Potomac. The writer of this statement, with ten or twelve others, who are said to be cognizant of the fact of McClellan having such an interview, have been summoned to appear before the committee on the Conduct of the War.

The State Senate.

We have forgotten to announce to our readers that our State Senate is fully organized and again at work. The district composed of Armstrong and Indiana counties have elected Dr. St. Clair, at a special election to supply the place of the gallant Major White, who resigned in consequence of his being in the Libby prison, at Richmond. The choice has fallen upon a worthy successor, a talented and patriotic gentleman, who will fearlessly and firmly do his duty, and who will with that noble band of Union men now in the Senate with him, resist the treasonable and infamous course of the vile crew of copperheads who now disgrace the State by their presence in the Senate. They have, in the most impudent and atrocious manner prevented the organization of that body ever since the first Tuesday in January, because they had the power, the two parties, that is the Union men and the copperheads, being a tie. Immediately upon the arrival of Dr. St. Clair at Harrisburg, he was escorted by a procession of citizens, with a band of music, to the Capitol, when he was sworn in by [illegible] The Union men then proceeded promptly to business. Amongst other important business, was the bill to amend the Constitution, so as to allow our soldiers in the field, fighting for the existence of our Government, to vote. This the copperhead crew of sixteen, voted against to man; and when the bill to allow a State bounty to the remnant of brave veterans now re-enlisting, came before the Senate, it was opposed by them. Thus every measure, which has for its object the raising of men and money for the war, or can in any way support the honor and dignity of our State, is sure to meet the opposition of these men. Their course is infinitely worse than rebels now in arms against the Government, and should no longer be tolerated.—They were in constant communication with their rebel allies at Richmond to prevent the release of Major White, and thus aid the cause of the South. But in this they were defeated by the friends of the Union.

We would ask why do not these men who oppose the war for the Government, go South to their friends?—They are a disgrace to the State of Pennsylvania, and if they do not go voluntarily should be driven across the lines. But the fear that the rebels would not be willing to receive such mean, sordid and infamous tritits or Old Granny Hopkins, who now disgraces his district, should go at [illegible] could not be found.

We see everywhere, when these copperhead opponents of the Government, in whatever place they may be found, show their hatred of our free institutions, and manifest their sympathy with every movement which can injure or bring dishonor upon our country. Let the people at the next fall elections show these traitors the way they are appreciated, and rid the State and the Republic of their vile presence.

The "Star" of Last Week.

It does really seem as if all the concentrated diabolism and hatred of our government of which so small a nature is capable, had been stuffed in to the last issue of the Star.

The first leading article, copied from the Toledo Blade, headed "Farmer's Read This," is one of the meanest, most diabolical, sneaking, hypocrical, incendiary, lying articles which we have read. Even Jeff. Davis, with all his treachery, or Floyd, or Cobb, or Toombs, would have disdained so dastardly an insult to the people of the Northern States. It was only reserved for the slimy venom of a sneaking copperhead to utter utter such fulsome treason, and for such a poor, insignificant sheet as the organ of Beaver County Copperheadism to spread it before its readers.

The editorial articles are in no wise better than the selection. The leading editorial of this week consists of a prophecy, by him of the Star, that the party in power will be overthrown in the next election, and the editor calls justly upon his co-laborers to organize for the coming conflict.—From the style in which our small copperhead sheet opens the campaign we may expect it to be one of intense virulence.

These fellows, having never had any love for their country in its prosperity, are now its deadliest enemies in the hour of its adversity. The only desire they ever felt was that inexhaustible desire for the emoluments of the offices which they might acquire. And now, being out of power, they very naturally desire to regain that which they have lost. We may expect them to resort to every specimen of vituneration and misrepresentation of which they are capable, for the purpose of again acquiring a dominant position in the country. Having no argument upon which to rest their claims they will be compelled to resort to detraction of the other party to obtain a hearing. Hence, we may be prepared to expect every sort of clap-trap, and every species of fraud from their stump orators, and every possible kind of falsehood from their papers in the coming campaign. But they will ignominously fail if our people only bear this great fact in mind, during a campaign, that the success of the men is equivalent to the triumph of the rebels.

The integrity of the great majority of the people such that they will spurn with contempt the cringing hypocrites where only pretending to be friends the government and of the war, vile every act of the party shows a opposite to be the fact. Only the issues be fairly met; let the attitude of each party be fairly before the people, and we have no fe of the result. And this we have all faith will be done. Our people rather too wide awake now to aught by such chaff as the Star and kindred sheets are endeavoring scatter before them. The stale cry "abolitionist" and "nigger heads" lost its terror, and will not deter the men from doing their duty operation and falsehood will not sufficient to cause them to vote the enemies of their country.

Go ahead, gentlemen of the Star, and organize your forces, and we predict for you the most complete drubbing you have ever had.

The Exchange of Prisoners.

It is now reported that the Rebel government has at length consented or agreed to an exchange of prisoners, but upon what terms we have not heard. We can say how far the report may be true. For a long time the question has been debated by the authorities on both sides, but during the whole time she Gen. Butler received full power on our part to effect a fair and full exchange, only five hundred have yet been handed over to Butler at Fortress onroe in exchange for five hundred awarded by him to Richmond.

The Rebels refuse any further exchange unless the Government gives up all questions hitherto considered by our authorities to be important, and unless their laws in regard to the officers and soldiers of Negro regiments are recognized. The government of Jeff. Davis keeps its back up constantly in regard to the "Beast Butler." They refuse to receive a flag of truce at all from Gen. Butler and to Davis' proclamation of outlawry against him as their great and final reason. They consider the pill too bitter to swallow, to be compelled to treat upon the subject with a man they affect to consider too vile for their aristocratic notice. But, notwithstanding all their grumbling and wry faces, and noise and swearing, they will have to swallow bitterer pills than this before all is over, and from the hands of that immortal patriot Butler, whom they say they despise. The rebel South has become peevish, morose and despairing. They feel that they are accursed and Godforsaken, and therefore they endeavor to bear their troubles with a brazen face. The trick will not answer. In all her relations the South betrays a miserable want of capacity. Numerous as her mistakes have been and great as their ignorance, she has seldom appeared so lamentably and miserably ridiculous as her action in relation to the exchange of prisoners.—Independence and ignorance, we have always heard, go hand in hand. In the dominions of rebeldom they appear to be as the Siamese twins. All the questions of the government on the subject of exchange are savagely rejected, whilst all the Rebels claims must be recognized, or nothing can be done. This is only on a par with other demands of the fraudulent Confederacy, equally stupid and audacious. We can look on serenely, and pray that the madmen who now rule the South may soon be brought to their senses. We all sympathize deeply with our gallant men now held in durance vile by the rebels, and with their friends, but we feel satisfied that the government is doing all in its power to alleviate their condition and have them restored to their places in the great Union army. The time when they will be restored, we feel confident, will be short. The government is making such preparations as will result in the speedy and crushing overthrow of those who now rebel against its authority.

ED. ARGUS: The Star says "there is a screw loose somewhere;" but after a perusal of its columns, I think there are several loose somewhere about its editor's upper story. GREENY.

For the Argus.

MR. EDITOR:—Learning that Capt. S. B. French's new side wheel steamer would leave Pittsburg on Thursday for Cincinnati, the writer, in company with several others, went over to Rochester for the purpose of seeing her. About 12 o'clock the smoke of her chimneys became visible and in a few minutes the magnificent vessel was descried just above Freedom, heading in for Rochester. Swiftly she shot over the intervening space, curving the waters that curled at her graceful sides, yet with such an easy motion, that she might more properly be said to be gliding over the surface of the water, than ploughing through it as most of our huge steamers do.

As soon as she had touched the wharf, Capt. French came ashore, and invited the party, about twenty persons, on board, to look through the cabin, and examine the new and beautiful machinery. Accordingly the whole party were soon on board, surveying the interior arrangement of the boat.

It is no more than justice to say that this is the most magnificent vessel ever launched in these waters.—Her length is 260 feet; breadth 36 feet; she draws light 2 feet 2 inches. The hull is a beautiful specimen of the handi-work of our friends of Freedom Borough, in this county, Messrs. Kerr & M'Caskey, in which they have displayed great mechanical skill. Her machinery is the most complete specimen of American skill, and reflects great credit upon Messrs. Robinson & Minis, of Pittsburg, by whom it was finished. The decorations of the cabin are of the most chaste and beautiful style, the scenery being the production of Mr. E. Bott, formerly of Phillipsburg, an artist well known to many of your readers, whose graphic delineations of several battle scenes, in the present war, has won the admiration of thousands.—The cabin is a spacious hall — feet in length; its sides and ceiling are of a dazzling whiteness, and rich Brussels carpeting which covers its floor makes a truly gorgeous contrast.—The furniture, upholstery, &c., are of the most costly and of the latest styles. A magnificent Piano in the ladies' cabin, affords to those who can appreciate music a delightful means of beguiling the soft hours of evening while gliding rapidly down the bosom of the Ohio.

Capt. French spread before his guests a sumptuous dinner, of which they all partook heartily. It was served up in a truly handsome style; and I can say to any of your readers, who may wish to make a trip to Cincinnati or Louisville, more comfortably, more pleasantly and more luxurious than they have ever done before, let them take passage on board the "Joseph Pierce," and they will find what I have described but faint picture of the reality. After having partaken of the hospitalities of the gallant and gentlemanly Captain, the party, with the exception of one or two who were to continue their visit to Cincinnati, returned to the shore, [illegible] The signal bell was [illegible] and the steamer was soon out of sight, speeding her way to Cincinnati.

Important from New Orleans.

NEW YORK, March 6.—The steamers Columbia and George Cromwell have arrived, with New Orleans advices of the 27th of February.

Admiral Farragut continued his attack on the forts below Mobile. A letter from the fleet, dated the 23d of February, says the whole mortar fleet had kept up an incessant fire on Fort Powell, which commands Grant's pass, since day light.

The rebel ram Tennessee was off Fort Morgan and expected to attack our fleet. She is said to be more powerful than the Merrimac was.

Fort Powell cannot hold out long against our bombardment.

Admiral Farragut was on board the Calhoun, near the Fort.

Our regiments from the Teche, are arriving daily in New Orleans, and being sent in transports to co-operate with Farragut.

Thirty four prisoners had escaped from the New Orleans Custom House, ten or twelve of whom were recaptured, and it was probable that the rest would be caught.

A mutiny occurred on board the bark Garibaldi, at the North West pass, on the 22d. The chief mate and one seaman are reported to have been killed before the mutiny was stopped.

Further of Kilpatrick's Raid.

WASHINGTON, March 4.—The Republican says: We are authorized to announce that the Government has received a dispatch from Gen. Butler covering another from General Kilpatrick to Major General Pleasanton announcing that Kilpatrick had succeeded in cutting the railroad and telegraphic communication of General Lee with Richmond, by tearing up the rails on the Virginia Central railroad at various points, and destroying the canal and mills on the James river. He burned and otherwise destroyed much other property belonging to the rebels, inflicting a severe blow upon the rebellion. He was met by the enemy outside the defences of Richmond, but succeeded in forcing him inside the outer works, where a sharp engagement ensued, when darkness came on and the conflict ended.

Gen. Kilpatrick finding the enemy and works too strong to allow him to reach the city and accomplish the object of the expedition, withdrew and reached the lines of Gen. Butler with a loss of about 150 men. Gen. Kilpatrick states among the missing are Col Dahlgren, Cook and Litelefield. He thinks the former are prisoners and the latter is either killed or wounded. The purpose, like that of Gen. Butler up the Peninsula some weeks ago, was an honest one and receives the sanction of the Government.

General Sherman's Operations

NEW YORK, March 5.—The Tribune's Washington correspondent says that Memphis advices of the 1st say that after reaching Meridian Sherman waited to hear from Smith's cavalry, but no news came for three days. He had a short allowance of provisions. By a rapid move he turned to Aberdeen, Western Mississippi, where his army was sure to find an abundance of provisions. By this he turned his back on Selma and Mobile, and marched towards Logan who had advanced to meet him, and by an audacious stroke of strategy placed himself at a distance of one hundred miles from Johnson's flank, now menaced by his advance.

The rumor spread concerning the attack on Mobile and Selma by Sherman was simply meant to divert public attention from the expedition which aims at an invasion of Georgia somewhere between Trenton and Lafayette.

BALTIMORE, March 7.—There are exciting rumors in the streets to-day of an extensive rebel raid on the Chesapeake, and that the steamer Louisiana, of the Norfolk line, had been captured by a party of rebels while on her downward trip to Fortress Monroe, and had been taken into one of the rivers of the Western shore of Virginia. It was stated that the rebels were in armed tugs. As far as can be ascertained, this rumor is false, but three other small boats have been captured. One of them is the side wheel steamer S. P. Thomas, Capt. Webster, employed as a dispatch boat between Fortress Monroe and Cherry Stone Inlet. The other two were tugs, employed between the same points.—The party making the capture were in a schooner, supposed to have come out of the Rappahannock, boarded the steamer, and compelled Capt. Webster to give bonds to the amount of some twenty thousand dollars, and then released him. They stole eleven thousand dollars from the Captain. Information was yesterday received at the military headquarters in this city that the wires were cut by raiders on Saturday morning, which was doubtless done by the same party who made the captures.

The Draft.

Vermont, New Hampshire, Connecticut, Rhode Island, Indiana, Michigan, Illinois and Iowa, have raised their full quotas under the 500,000 call; Ohio, Wisconsin and Missouri very nearly so. Pennsylvania and Kentucky continue to be most backward. It is not true that as soon as the impending draft is completed another will be ordered. But the proposition is entertained in the War Department to make an additional call for 200,000 men before the draft is made, in order to make up for the deficit to be caused by the transfer of men from the army to the navy, and to raise and keep ready for emergencies two large reserve bodies, one to be formed in the West and the other in the East.

RECRUITING NEGROES.—When Gen. Smith's cavalry force was cantering about through Mississippi, negroes flocked to his command by hundreds and thousands, mounted on their masters' horses and mules, with bridles and saddles of the most primitive description. They met General Smith at their deliverer wherever he met them. "God bress ye, has yer come at last, we've been lookin' for yer for a long time, and almost done gone give it up" was the cry of many. They bid farewell to their wives and children, and marched in the van.

ANOTHER COUNTERFEIT.—A new counterfeit note was extensively shoved, in various parts of the city, last evening. It is an imitation of the genuine two dollar bills of the Farmers' Bank of Bucks county, located at Bristol, Penn'a. The vignette is a spread eagle perched upon a limb of a tree; figure 2 in a medalion on each side; a woman in a fancy figure 2 on right end; medalion female antique head; figure 2 above and below on left end. The general appearance of the bill, with the exception of the vignette and engraving of the name of the Bank, is rough. The word Bristol on the upper left corner is particularly poorly done.—Pittsburg Chronicle.

☞ D. C. Humphreys, of Alabama, a Democratic Presidential elector in 1860, and since an active secessionist, has issued an address in which he defines his position, and advises the return of the South to the Union. He says the Confederate States have waited in vain for a foreign recognition, which has not been offered and will not be.

CINCINNATI, March 7.—Gen. Grant passed through here this morning en route for Washington. Dispatches received here from Charleston indicate that the rebels are pressing our lines. Our advance has been withdrawn from Tunnel Hill to Ringgold. The rebel furnaces at Atlanta have stopped running for want of coal. Advices from Knoxville of the 5th inst., say that Longstreet is supposed to be at Greenville. His forces hold Bull's Gap. It is thought that only a small part of his army has gone to Georgia. Our advance is near Morristown.

Grant will soon be here and some important military changes will take place soon after his arrival.

General Meade's friends are highly pleased with his vindication of himself before the Committee on the Conduct of the War on Saturday. His accusors assert that other Generals will sustain the charges against him, but there is no longer any doubt among intelligent men on the subject. Gen. Meade's simple denial of the charge against him is considered sufficient.

WASHINGTON, March 5, 1864.

The general order promulgating the appointment of Grant as Lieutenant-General first recites the recent act of Congress, then announces the appointment of Grant in the language of law, and declares that he is authorized, under the direction and during the pleasure of the President, to command the armies of the United States. It is believed that Grant is now on his way here, but not to fill any office in Washington.

Sherman's Raid Over.

CAIRO, March 5.—A private letter received at Memphis from Vicksburg, dated 27th ult. says: The 17th Army Corps, General McPherson commanding, is back at Jackson, where it is expected to remain for the present.—Sherman, with the remainder of his force, is also en route for the same place. All the railroads on Sherman's route are utterly destroyed.

THANKS TO ROSECRANS.—The House Military committee at their last sessions directed the chairman to insert the name of General Rosecrans in the joint resolution of thanks to Gen. Thomas and his army for gallantry at the battle of Chickamauga.

PARSON BROWNLOW.—The Parson is recovering from his severe illness, and left Knoxville a few days ago for the North. He arrived at Louisville on Thursday.

☞ A woman is under arrest at Syracuse, New York, for destroying her grandchild, only three months old, by giving it vitriol.

NET SOLDIER'S TRUE FRIEND!

ALWAYS READY.

HOLLOWAY'S OINTMENT.

LONG marches, sore and stiff joints, blistered and inflamed feet, all these the soldier must endure, MOTHERS, REMEMBER THIS, when your sons are grasping their muskets to meet danger, think what relief a pot of this ALL HEALING & COOLING Salves will give to the one you love when far away from home and friends. It hardens and makes tough the feet so that they can endure great fatigue. It soothes and relieves the inflamed and stiffened joints, leaving them supple, strong and vigorous, while for at stands unequalled, removing and preventing every vestige of inflammation, and gently drawing the edges together, it quickly and completely heals the most frightly wounds.

SABRE CUTS AND GUNSHOT WOUNDS

WIVES AND SISTERS OF OUR VOLUNTEERS

Yo cannot put into the Knapsack Husbands and Brothers, a more valuable nor more necessary gift than a supply of this EXTRAORDINARY MILITARY SALVE.

The lonely sentry walking his rounds at night, exposed to drenching rains and chill night air, is often seized the most VIOLENT PAINS, COUGHS and SUFFOCATING HOARSNESS, first symptoms of QUICK CONSUMPTION, but if supplied with HOLLOWAY'S PILLS and HOLLOWAY'S OINTMENT, all danger is averted, a few Pills taken night and morning, and the ointment briskly rubbed twice a day over the throat and chest will remove the SEVEREST PAINS and stop the most distressing pr DANGEROUS COUGH Therfore we say to the whole army,

SOLDIERS ATTENTION!!

See to your own health, do not trust to the Army supplies although most valuable. These PILLS and OINTMENT have been thoroughly tested, they are the only remedies used in the European Camps and Barracks, for over forty years Doctor Holloway has supplied all the armies in Europe, and during the CRIMEAN CAMPAIGN he established a depot at Balaclava, for the exclusive sale of these GREAT REMEDIES, many a time his special Agent there has sold over a ton in weight of the Ointment in a single day. These terrible and fatal enemies of the Soldier in Camp, DIARRHEA, DYSENTERY, SCURVY, SORES and SCROFULOUS ERUPTIONS, all disappear like a charm before these PILLS AND OINTMENT, and, now while the Cry rings throughout the land,

TO ARMS! TO ARMS!!

Do not let these brave men perish by disease, place in their hands these PRECIOUS REMEDIES, that will enable them to resist the dangerous exposures, the Fevers, the Chills, and the wounds which they cannot avoid, and what is more, cannot frequently get succor in the moment of need, whereas if our brave men have only to put their hands into their Knapsacks and find there a sure remedy for all the casualties of the battle field. How many thousands of lives would thus be saved who would otherwise perish before relief could be obtained.

TO PHYSICIANS & DRUGGISTS.

THE undersigned would inform Physicians and Druggists that, owing to an increasing demand, he is now prepared to manufacture on a larger scale than heretofore all articles of the Pharmacopœia. These will be of the strength and quality as dispensed in the Prescription Department of my store, and will be found superior in strength to most in market. I guarantee them to be of the proper strength and purity.

Some preparations offered are new, but will be made official in the new Pharmacopœia soon to be issued, and will be found to be valuable remedies.

Any information as regards their strength, uses and qualities will be sent to those desiring it.

I would advise Physicians who have been disappointed in the effect of any remedy, to try those of my manufacture.

They include—

Compound Extract of Colocynth.

Fluid Extracts of Dandelion, Buchu, Ergot, Gentian, Lipulin Valerian, Wild Cherry Bark, and others.

Citrate of Iron and Citrate of Iron and Quinine; very soluble.

Wine of Iron and Wine of Iron and Bark agreeable chalybeates.

Syrup of the Hypophosphites.

Cerate of the Extract of Cantharides; a more reliable preparation than the common Cerate.

Oxalate of Cerium; useful in obstinate vomiting.

Elixir of Valerianate of Ammonia, a valuable remedy for nervous sick headache, where a nervous stimulant and antacid is indicated.

Solution of Bi-arsenate of Morphia; same strength as Laudanum and more agreeable in its effects.

Pyro-phosphate of Iron; soluble.

These, together with all rare and fine chemicals and other medicinal articles, furnished in any quantities.

I am prepared to make chemical examinations of Ores, Drugs, Oils, Waters, &c.

CRITTENDEN'S PHILADELPHIA COMMERCIAL COLLEGE,

N. E. corner of 7th & Chestnut St.,

PHILADELPHIA, PA.

THIS Institution, which was established in 1844, and is now consequently in the eighteenth year of its existence, numbers among its graduates, hundreds of the most successful Merchants and Business Men of our Country.

The object of the Institution is solely to afford young men facilities for thorough preparation for business.

The branches taught are, Book-keeping, as applicable to the various departments of trade; Penmanship, both plain and ornamental; Commercial Law, mathematics, Navigation, Civil, Engineering, Drawing, Phonography, and Modern Languages.

The system of instruction is peculiar; no classes or set lessons are made use of, but each student is taught individually, so that he may commence at any time, and attend at whatever hours are most convenient.

Catalogues are issued annually after the 15th of April, containing names of the students for the year, and full particulars of terms, &c., and may be obtained at any time by addressing the Principal.

In extensive accommodations, wide-spread reputation, and the lengthy experience of the Principals this Institution offers facilities superior to any other in the country, for young men wishing to prepare for business, and to obtain at the same time A DIPLOMA, which will prove a recommendation for them to any Mercantile House.

☞ CRITTENDEN'S Series of Treatises on Book-Keeping, now more widely circulated than any other work on the subject, are for sale at the College.

AN ASYLUM FOR THE RECEPTION, CURE AND TREATMENT OF MENTAL ALIENATION OR DISORDER.

And Other Nervous and Chronic Diseases,

EXCLUSIVELY FOR FEMALES.

THIS institution is now open for the reception, care and treatment of the insane and nervous of patients who are laboring under mental derangement, or other nervous and chronic disease. We make special mention of nervous and chronic diseases, from the fact that seven-tenths of the female patients that are committed to our public Asylums, to be treated for disordered minds, are reduced to that lamentable condition through previous physical disorder. By a well timed and judicious treatment of chronic and nervous diseases, all physical disorders, in the majority of cases may be removed, and thus the mind, having suffered through the medium of the body, will when free from the exciting physical cause,

DR. CHEESEMAN'S PILLS

THE combination of ingredients in these Pills are the result of a long and extensive practice. FRIENDS AND RELATIVES OF THE BRAVE SOLDIERS AND SAILORS.

HOLLOWAY'S PILLS And Ointment.

ALL WHO have Friends and Relatives in the Army or Navy, should take especial care that they be amply supplied with those Pills and Ointment; and where the brave Soldiers and Sailors have neglected to provide themselves with them, no better present can be sent them by their friends. They have been proved to be the Soldier's never-failing friend in the hour of need.

COUGHS AND COLDS AFFECTING TROOPS

Will be speedily removed and effectually cured by using these admirable medicines, and by paying proper attention to the Directions which are attached to each Pot or Box.

SICK HEADACHES AND WANT OF APPETITE INCIDENTAL TO SOLDIERS.

These feelings which so sadden us, usually arise from trouble or annoyances, obstructed perspiration, or eating and drinking whatever is unwholesome, thus disturbing the healthful action of the liver and stomach. These organs must be relieved, if you desire to be well. The Pills, taking according to the printed instructions, will quickly a produce a healthy action in both liver and stomach, and as a natural consequence a clear head and good appetite.

WEAKNESS OR DEBILITY INDUCED BY OVER FATIGUE,

Will soon disappear by the use of these invaluable Pills, and the Soldier will quickly acquire additional strength. Never let the bowels be either confined or unduly acted upon. It may seem strange that Holloway's Pills should be recommended for Dysentery and Flux, many persons supposing that they would increase the relaxation. This is a great mistake, for these Pills will correct the liver and stomach and thus remove all the acrid humors from the system. This medicine will give tone and vigor to the whole organic system however deranged, while health and strength follow as a matter of course. Nothing will stop the relaxation of the Bowels so sure as this famous medicine.

VOLUNTEERS ATTENTION! INDISCRETIONS OF YOUTH.

Sores and Ulcers, Blotchings and Swellings, can with certainty be radically cured if the Pills are taken night and morning, and the ointment be freely used as stated in the printed instructions. If treated in any other manner they dry up in one part to break out in another. Whereas this Ointment will remove the humors from the system and leave the Patient a vigorous and healthy man. It will require a little perseverance in bad cases to insure a lasting cure.

FOR WOUNDS EITHER OCCASIONED BY THE BAYONET, OR SABRE OR THE BULLET, SORES OR BRUISES,

To which every Soldier and Sailor are liable there are no medicines so safe, sure and convenient as Holloway's Pills and ointment. The poor wounded and almost dying sufferer might have his wounds dressed immediately, if he would only provide himself with this matchless Ointment, which should be thrust into the wound and smeared all around it, then covered with a piece of linen from his knapsack, and compressed with a handkerchief. Taking night and morning 6 or 8 Pills, to cool the system and prevent inflamation.

Every Soldier's knapsack and Seaman's chest should be provided with these valuable Remedies.

CAUTION.—None are genuine unless the words "Holloway, New York and London," are discernable as a water-mark in every leaf of the book of directions around each pot or box: the same may be plainly seen by holding the leaf to the light. A handsome reward will be given to any one rendering such information as may lead to the detection of any party or parties counterfeiting the medicines or vending the same, knowing them to be spurious.

☞ Sold at the Manufactory of Professor HOLLOWAY, 80 Maiden Lane, New York, and by all respectable Druggists and Dealers in Medicines, throughout the civilized world, in boxes at 25 cents, 63 cents and $1 each.

☞ There is considerable saving by taking the larger sizes.

N. B.—Directions for the guidance of patients in every disorder are affixed to each box.

In all their branches, as conducted on the latest and most approved system.

Our labors in this department for over thirty years, have met the cordial approbation of the public. Our purpose has been to furnish useful and reliable information upon these very important branches of industry, and to protect them so far as within our power against the false doctrines and selfish purposes of the many empires and sensation-adventurers by which the Farmer is incessantly assailed. This portion of the Germantown Telegraph will alone be worth the whole price of subscription, as every Farmer and Gardener, who has a proper conception of his calling, will readily admit.

NEWS DEPARTMENT.

The same industry, care, and discrimination, in gathering and preparing the Stirring Events of the Day, expressly for this paper, which hitherto has been one of its marked features and given so universal satisfaction, will be continued with redoubled efforts to meet the increasing demands of the public. The labor required in this department is never fully appreciated by the reader. It would be impossible, to present, the condensed and carefully made-up form in which it appears, a corrected mass of all the most interesting news of the week, without involving much physical labor, tact and judgment.

We annex the cash terms, to which we beg leave to call attention of all who think of subscribing for a newspaper:

"VANITY FAIR."

"This paper is excellent. . . . Remarkable for originality."—N. Y. Traveller.

"VANITY FAIR is conducted by a vivacious, witty and intelligent corps of journalists."—Litchfield (Conn.) Enquirer.

"Whosoever finds himself laughing at the wit of VANITY FAIR, and does not return a quid pro quo, is fit for treason, and spoils."—N. Y. Crayon.

NOW.

ARE DR. HURD'S PREPARATIONS GOOD

The best evidences that they are is, that their firmest friends and best patrons are those who have used them longest. Dr. Wm. B. Hurd is an eminent Dentist of Brooklyn, Treasurer of the New York State Dentists' Association, and those preparations have been used in his private practice for years, and no leading citizen of Brooklyn or Williamsburg questions their excellence, while eminent Dentists of New York recommend them as the best known to the profession. Without the aid of advertising, dealers have sold them by the gross.

The Editor of the Brooklyn Daily Times says: "We are happy to know that our friend, Dr. Hurd, is succeeding beyond all expectations with his MOUTH WASH and TOOTH POWDER. The great secret of his success rests with the fact that his articles are proudly what they are represented to be, as we can testify from their long use."

The well known P. T. Barnum writes: "I found your TOOTH POWDER so good that my family have used it all up. We find it the best powder for the teeth we have ever used. I shall feel obliged if you will send me another supply at the Museum at your convenience, with bill."

But their cost is so small that every one may test the matter for himself.

☞ Beware of the ordinary Tooth Powders. Dr. Hurd's Tooth Pooder contains no acid, nor alkali, nor charcoal, and polishes without wearing the ename. Use no other.

WHAT WILL DR. HURD'S REMEDIES EFFECT?

Dr. Hurd's Mouth Wash and Tooth Powder will give young ladies that finest charm to woman—a sweet breath and pearly teeth. Try them, ladies.

Dr. Hurd's Mouth Wash and Tooth Powder will cleanse the mouth from all foul exhalations, and if used in the morning, will make the breakfast taste sweeter and the day beg
